What's your motive?

In the Seventh-day Adventist Encyclopedia there is a preacher by the name of D.M. Canright. He lived from 1840 to 1919. He was a brilliant, gifted man who could keep his audience spellbound, and was ordained to Adventist ministry at the age of 25.

Evidently during his early training, as the story goes, two theology students were sent to preach, and each was to critique the other. It was Canright's turn, and he described the glories of the new earth. That afternoon Canright asked his friend, "Well, how did I do?" To which his friend replied, "I don't know. I got so caught up in the message, I forgot to critique." At that point Canright asserted, "If it were not for this message, I could be a great man!"

Records show that Canright was a forceful preacher, a polemic writer, and an able administrator, but intolerant, opinionated, and chafed under ministerial control. In 1887 he left the Adventist Church and joined the Baptist ministry.

Evidently sometimes right actions can come from wrong motives. Jesus clearly stated that right actions must stem from pure motives when He said, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God" (Matthew 5:8). It's intriguing that the rest of chapter 5 and 6 discuss the issues of motives.

In Jesus' day the orthodox Jews identified three great pillars of good life: almsgiving, fasting, and prayer. To do these would ascribe you as a righteous person, and assure you of eternal life. No wonder Jesus addressed the motives of these three issues, stressing that unless your "righteousness exceeds the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees; you cannot enter the kingdom of heaven." Listen to what He says. "Take heed that you do not do your charitable deeds (alms) before men, to be seen by them..." (Mt. 6:1); And when you pray, you shall not be like the hypocrites, for they love to pray, standing in the synagogues and on the corners of the street, that they may be seen by men (V 5). Finally He addresses fasting. "Moreover, when you fast, do not be like the hypocrites, with a sad countenance. For they disfigure their faces that they may appear to men to be fasting" (v16). Of the three, almsgiving was the chief virtue.

Having introduced the subject of motives, why do we volunteer for service? William Barkley contends there are three main reasons.

1. Out a sense of duty. Catherine Cardwell in her autobiography, Lying Awake says, "Giving was regarded as a duty, but often with the giving there was a moral lecture which provided a smug pleasure for the person who gave it." She tells of her father going to the cells at the police station on Sunday afternoons, bailing out the weekend drunks so they wouldn't lose their jobs Monday morning. Each was asked to pay it back out of the next week's wages. He always included a smug lecture with his giving. Barkley continues, "When he gives from a sense of duty, even...Christian duty...one thing he never gives is himself, and therefore the giving is incomplete."

2. It gives a feeling of prestige. Having done a good deed we gain a feeling of superiority when we compare ourselves with others.

3. Because our heart compels us, we can do no other. This is the pure motive Jesus spoke about in Matthew 5:8.

In the 1700's James Bothwell wrote a biography about his friend Dr. Samuel Johnson. Coming home late one night Johnson found a poor woman lying on the street so exhausted she could not walk. He carried her to his house when he discovered she was a prostitute who had fallen into poverty and disease. Instead of upbraiding her, he nursed her back to health at considerable expense; then found a respectable job for her. For all this all Johnson got was suspicion about his own character. When asked how he could stand having his house full of these undeserving people, he answered, "If I do not assist them, no one else will, and they must not be lost for want."

So how do our motives rate? My guess is that when we open ourselves to Jesus, it will be from a pure heart. —Ken Wiebe

Canadians travel to altitude of 14,000 feet

On April 30, ADRA Connections Peru participants boarded the first flight of a mountain-top adventure. Participants distributed life-saving Alpaca blankets to beneficiaries at 13,950 feet above sea level, built eco-stoves with local trainers, and provided children with warm winter coats and hats to ward off the killing affects of the annual cold-wave.

Each year, an estimated 51,000 Peruvian children and elderly suffer from severe respiratory illnesses, and last year more than 300 succumbed to illness as a result of the killing cold experienced in the mountain villages of Peru. This year Canadians made a difference in three communities. One thousand at-risk children and elderly community members were identified by ADRA and selected to receive Alpaca Blankets ADRA supporters purchased from the ADRA Gift Catalogue. The ADRA Connections participants travelled two hours by bus “over several sections of dusty, dirt road that shook [them] to the core” to fulfill the distribution, said Marie.

The group was greeted by an enormous crowd. Shy smiles, handshakes and informal greetings were given, followed by official speeches and welcomes from community officials. Over the next three hours, mothers, fathers, children and the elderly waited in the hot sun as registrations were verified and the blankets distributed. In addition, a group of 220 children, aged six to nine, received winter coats and hats. These children were identified during the blanket distribution selection process, as being unable to afford these items and at-risk as a result.

Also on this trip, local trainers and Connections participants worked side by side over several days learning to build eco-stoves. “The eco-stoves are an important development tool in Peru. Open-fire cook stoves provide a serious health hazard in the homes here. Children in these homes are suffering severe mental and physical developmental stunting. The smoke being inhaled is the equivalent of smoking four to five cigarettes daily. Not to mention the number of severe burns suffered by men, women and children annually as a result of falling on the fires,” said Liz Horniachek, ADRA Canada Connections Coordinator. The eco-stoves, when properly constructed, are vented to the outside, eliminating some of the associated health-risks of ‘burn-stoves’. Additionally, their completely enclosed construction requires less fuel to run, saving the beneficiaries the cost of fuel.

Connections Trips provide assistance to the most vulnerable, and introduce participants to a unique experience in development. Every effort is made to ensure trips support the local economy and do not have a negative impact on local workers. ## God is faithful to His word and promise

They say that bad news sells more newspapers than good news! Just pick up a newspaper and you will see that is the case. Our news sources are saturated with bad news. I think the prophet Isaiah understood this bad news – good news concept. For a while it seems like it was only bad news in Judah. The people of Judah had lived with bad news for so long that they wondered if there would ever be any good news. Suddenly, the prophet brings those who have been beaten down good news. This good news overcame all of the bad news, which had been in place for so long.

“The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me, because the Lord has anointed me to bring good news to the afflicted; He has sent me to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to captives and freedom to prisoners...” Isa. 61: 1.

The message of the prophet is simple: God is faithful to His word and His promise. He keeps the covenant He makes; God is a God of salvation who brings relief and comfort to his people.

We have a lot of beaten down people all around us! We have been called to share the good news with them and as a result of your generosity and your prayers each week more than 160,000 Canadians hear the good news via It Is Written Canada.

I love this little story I read the other day. It is the story of a tourist in Switzerland who spotted a beautiful mansion on the shore of a lovely lake. The tourist was deeply impressed by the large and well-manicured garden in which the mansion was set. Not a weed was to be seen anywhere. As the tourist was admiring the garden, he spotted one of the staff, the curator, and began to praise its beauty and order. He asked the curator, “How long have you worked here?”

“Twenty years,” was the reply. In the ensuing conversation, it was disclosed that the owner of the mansion was absent most of the time. “How often has the owner been in residence during your twenty years of service?” “Four times,” replied the curator. The visitor was amazed. “To think,” he exclaimed, “that for all these years you have kept this mansion and garden in such superb condition! Why, you look after them just as if you expected your master to come tomorrow!” “No,” corrected the curator, “I look after things as if I expected my master to come today!”

Adventist Church Connect

In today's technically connected society of social networks, blogging sites, video posts, cyber chat, more and more people are relying on the information highway to connect, to find, and to share.

It reminds me of a Bible text in Matthew 7:7, "Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you."

The Internet has become a place to bond and belong.

If that's where today's society is at, if that's where people are going to Ask, Seek and Knock, then we must find ways to connect and provide the information that will lead them to Jesus.

It's true that if your church is not on the internet, to most people you don't exist.

Let me introduce you to the Adventist Church and School Connect content management system. It is a powerful website management tool that the North American Division is providing free to every Seventh-day Adventist church and school in Bermuda, Canada, and the United States.

The North American Division has contracted AdventSource to provide customer training, support, and marketing for Adventist Church and School Connect for the approximately 3600 church and school websites.

Many people are intimidated by the word "website" because it has gained a reputation from the past as being a complicated and highly technical procedure. Well, that is not the case anymore.

With ACC's content management system, you don't have to know a website programming language like html or php to add content and photos to your website. You can edit pages as you would in a word processor similar to Microsoft Word.

Denis Prescott, a member of the Merritt Seventh-day Adventist Church, has been maintaining his church's ACC website for four years. I recently spoke to Denis about his experience and thoughts regarding the ACC platform and this is what he said, "The ease of adding and or editing information makes for an awesome tool".

There are many useful features available with ACC websites such as:

- Built-in member, author, editor and administrator user levels.
- Prayer request feature allows site visitors to submit prayer requests.
- Dynamic RSS content such as daily devotionals.
- Calendar allows departments to enter and categorize their own events.
- Adventist Church News from the North American Division, Adventist News Network, and Adventist Review.

Next time I will go into more detail regarding my opinion of the most useful ACC features and share with you some examples.

With the rapid increase of mobile Internet devices, it is important that these devices can process and display your church website content. That is why all ACC websites are now mobile device friendly. When a mobile device accesses an ACC website, a custom mobile template is activated with the content and sent to the mobile display.

Here is an online list of the Alberta Conference church websites <http://www.adventistchurchconnect.com/>

acc\_report\_ab.php. Remember, you are not alone when it comes to maintaining an ACC website. AdventSource provides training and support free of charge.

There are many helpful resources available on the ACC help website such as: live online video training, archived video tutorials, information about local training events, e-mail support, and step-by-step how to guides. The help website is located at <http://help.adventistchurchconnect.com>.

As children, my brother Alex and I were familiar with being sent to various day camps throughout the summer. Both our parents worked during the day and did not like to see us sitting around the house. Each summer we were enrolled in a variety of day camps (usually run through the YMCA). However, in 2003, due to an overlapping holiday, YMCA camps were not running for one week. My parents quickly searched for an alternative camp to send Alex and I to. As they discussed several prospective camps, my Mom spotted a brochure for Foothills Camp. I'm unsure how that brochure came into our possession, however, mom and dad seemed very intrigued with the picture of a child waterskiing on the front page. It was very fortunate that the week specialized for children age 10-12 (I was 11 at this time) coincided exactly with the week that the YMCA camp was cancelled because I was available to attend Foothills Camp for the first time. At this point I had never been to an overnight camp but I was excited for a new experience. My brother, on the other hand, who was then 10 years old, had refused to join me.

I treasure the time I spent at Foothills Camp very much. Since I had not grown up in a religious household, I learned about God for the first time that summer. I was fascinated by all the Bible stories and new information I was hearing about God from the pastors and camp counsellors. I had made some very good friends at camp and I dreaded leaving. I cried so much on the drive home that my parents decided to turn around and take me back for a second week at camp.

I began middle school after that summer. Although I had enjoyed much of my experience in elementary school I found seventh grade to be much different. My parents had sent me to a French school and I was completely miserable the entire year. My friends from elementary school had gone elsewhere and I was very lonely. I found the teachers either rude and abusive or completely indifferent. I was failing two of my classes. I did not care for the atmosphere of that school or the people in it. I tried not to be negatively influenced by my exposure to that environment. I hated school and I would try to stop going. Soon I began to hate my life and took out my anger on my parents. They still remember that year as well as I do.

When summer finally approached, I desperately wanted to return to Foothills Camp. The second summer certainly didn't disappoint me. The people were different at Foothills: kind, caring, full of love. It was that summer that I remember talking with kids who also lived in Calgary. They mentioned that they attend a school called Chinook Winds Adventist Academy (CWAA). Without any further knowledge of this school, I had decided that I too wanted to attend CWAA and was utterly determined to go.

This idea, of course, did not go over well with my parents. They were not supportive of this decision and absolutely refused to ever let me attend CWAA. They did, however, understand that I did not want to return to my previous school and respected my request to change schools. Instead they simply sent me to a different public school. That school, however, did not seem any different to me. It was just not what my heart was set on. About a week into the school year I flatly refused to go. As I was behaving so defiantly, my parents, perhaps realizing that attending CWAA was better than not attending school at all, agreed to send me.

I knew I was where I was meant to be as soon as I walked into Chinook Winds. The snobbiness and indifference I was used to had been replaced with friendly smiles and warm welcomes. The teachers cared about my scholastic progress and took time to treat me as an individual. I appreciated the opportunities that were provided for me. After each school year my Dad would try to convince me to go back to public school but every year I refused.

I'm currently taking a Biology degree at Canadian University College and starting my fourth summer working at Foothills Camp as a lifeguard.

I am very blessed that the experiences I had at Foothills Camp led me into a personal relationship with Jesus and I was baptized in 2008 at the Calgary Parkdale Adventist Church.

As a result, summer camp is a mission that has become very close to my heart. The opportunity to attend summer camp can be taken for granted by many children and the impact it can have may be overlooked by many adults. It is important for me to express the value of summer camp and the potential it has to make a difference in lives. I am very grateful that God somehow led me to Foothills Camp and I pray that other children are able to have the same fulfilling experience.

Kaylie's Cope with Hope

When I reached out to my fellow members at Edmonton South with an idea for an outreach to the Stollery Children's Hospital called Kaylie's Cope with Hope Pack, they embraced the project immediately with donations coming in quickly. An approximate total of $3600 has come in since May 2011. The feelings and stress experienced when your child is first admitted to the hospital can be overwhelming. On June 28, 2009, we rushed into the Emergency at the Stollery Children's Hospital with a feverish child and did not leave for two weeks. Nothing could have prepared us for our daughter Kaylie's diagnosis, Leukemia. When you are struck with news of a critically ill child, the last thing you want to think about is finding toothbrushes!

Kaylie's Cope with Hope Pack is in response to our own experience of having to scramble to get together those items needed for an unexpected stay at the hospital. This care pack is a way of saying, you're not alone, we've been here and there is hope. Our goal is to help ease the stress and offer support to newly admitted children and their families, as they begin to cope with this new reality of a critically sick child and needing to be by their side 24/7.

The youth of the Kingdom Seekers Pathfinder Club have been a great help. Bev and Mark Prangle and Carol Neptune did a fabulous job organizing the Pathfinders and we completed 30 packs and 30 encouragement cards during one evening meeting in June and 30 packs in November and February. The Club also donated pens, notebooks and activity books for the packs.

A small group of ladies volunteered their time, talents and tools for a few hours in November to create beautifully decorated hand-made encouragement cards, which are signed by church members. The Kindergarten, Primary and Junior classes are also doing their part in supporting this local mission project through collecting pennies, new stuffies and crayon packs.

By the end of May 2012, 120 "Kaylie's Cope with Hope Packs" have been delivered to the Child Life Department at the Stollery Children's Hospital. The staff were impressed with the cheery pictures our children coloured on the bags and have expressed their gratitude to all who have contributed to this project which "has helped brighten the days of many children, and their families" during their stay at the Stollery Children's Hospital.

Kaylie's Cope with Hope Pack

Although policies at the Hospital do not currently allow us to include messages of a religious nature, being able to encourage others is a gift, and the opportunity that has been given to make a difference is tremendous. Sadly, 10 packs a month does not even come close to meeting the number of children that are admitted with critical conditions.

Please continue to keep this outreach in your prayers. If you would like to support this project and are able to contribute in some way, please contact the Edmonton South Church at (780) 465-4426 or email s\_boutcher@yahoo.ca.

Transform Me (Women's Ministries)

On April 13-15 approximately 320 ladies attended the Women's Ministries Retreat entitled "Transform Me" at the Sheraton Hotel in Red Deer. As the ladies arrived, they were greeted by valet attendants and conference helpers. Many signed up for massages before relaxing in the beautifully decorated lounge area. Ginny Allen, the keynote speaker, shared Jesus through heart warming and amazing personal life stories. On Sabbath, the ladies were led to a closer encounter with Jesus through Ginny's messages and an anointing service in the afternoon. Workshops were also offered throughout the day focusing on different aspects of transformation. In the evening the ladies gathered for an agape feast where mother and daughter, Donna Jackson and Lara Melashanko, inspired the ladies with messages and activities of God's amazing love and to lead each to seek Him more. The evening ended with a social time of crafts, card making, bath salt creations and even a fun photo booth. On Sunday, Ginny led the ladies to consecrate their lives to Him and to make a decision for Him. It was truly a life changing, transformational encounter with Jesus.

KIDS in Discipleship Training

On April 28 & 29, 2012 a team comprised of Cynthia Campbell, Pastor Joseph Augustin, the Weiss and the Gabrys families travelled to the Edmonton Central church to train several teams for KIDS in Discipleship. The participants had the opportunity to learn the importance of Discipleship, the value of "TAG" time ("Time Alone with God") as well as how to get the mentors and parents actively engaged in discipleship.

If your church or group of churches are interested in participating in this life changing weekend please contact Irma Hartley at (403) 342-5044 to schedule the training team.

Drayton Valley

On April 26 the Drayton Valley Fellowship Group was organized into a company. It was an exciting day for those present to witness 20 sign as charter members and many additional ones sign as “friends.” Some of the friends are members from other churches who will give support to the new company and others are not yet members of the Adventist church but are a part of the fellowship. There are baptisms planned in the near future.

There have been previous attempts to establish an Adventist presence in Drayton Valley dating back to 1973. However, the current initiative started in January 2009 as a fellowship with four people meeting in the home of Derald and Teresa Kisser.

Over the past three years there have been many evidences of God’s guidance. Amazing Facts played an important role in leading people in the area to the Adventist faith and then to the fellowship group. Adventists moved to the area and added to the numbers. In the spring of 2010 Pastor John Gilbert held evangelistic meetings and at that time more joined, some through transfer and others through baptism.

In May of 2010 a new location was found for this growing group, the Pembina Consortium facility. The newly organized company is enthusiastic about being Christ’s representative for God’s last day message and mission in this beautiful area of Alberta.

Their Vision is to be a church united in the love of Jesus and the Three Angels’ message, being led and transformed by the Holy Spirit prepared for the Second Advent of Christ.

Their Mission is to proclaim the gospel of Jesus Christ and the beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, inspiring in all a love for Christ and a desire to be transformed by the Holy Spirit to reflect Christ’s image in preparation for His second coming.

The Drayton Valley Company is a current example of how Christ wants His people to expand to new areas and be a witness for Him.

SAGE Work Retreat

The first SAGE Alberta Spiritual Work Retreat themed, “Together We Can Make a Difference,” was held May 4-7 at Foothills Camp. On Friday evening and Sabbath, church members fifty years and older from various parts of the Alberta Conference gathered for a spiritual retreat. Speakers Pastor John Gilbert and Pastor Don Corkum, as well as Sabbath School assistant Everett Matiko, brought messages of hope and encouragement challenging attendees to grow in their relationship with Jesus and others.

Sunday & Monday, the Foothills Camp work began as more than 50 people spread out over the camp grounds cutting down trees, splitting logs, shredding branches, raking lawns, organizing and repairing the wood shed, painting all auditoriums, cleaning washrooms as well as tables and chairs. God provided beautiful weather so that we could accomplish many tasks, have an enjoyable time, and together make a difference at Foothills Camp.

Calgary Bethany French Company

Calgary Adventist Bethany French

Sabbath May 12, 2012 will long be remembered as a high Sabbath by the Calgary Adventist Bethany French Company. It was their day of organization from a group to a company. On that day about 35 signed as charter members with a number of friends signing their support to the group.

Conference leaders, Ken Wiebe and Larry Hall led out in the organization service. Don Corkum, church planting coordinator, had the message which was a charge to the new church to be Spirit led, Christ centered and Mission focused.

Jean Racine who has been leading them as a group will now serve as company leader. There is good leadership in this company and also many talented people to be involved in ministry and service. Donald Pierre, a theology and education student at Canadian University College translated key parts of the service from French to English and also had the Sabbath School lesson. He has been providing support to this group as they worked toward company status along with the pastoral staff at Calgary Bridgeland.

The Bethany Adventist French Company had its beginning in the Calgary Bridgeland church. During 2009 a Sabbath School class was started in the French language. They first met in the Bridgeland church, then in the homes of members. As their numbers increased they desired to have a worship service conducted in the Bridgeland church. In December of 2010 they began meeting in the lower floor of the church facility.

In October of 2011 another step was taken to move from the church facility to another location. At present their meeting place is in Calgary North East. The company organization took place at this location.

It is estimated that about 25,000 French speaking people reside in Calgary. This company hopes that they can bear a strong witness for Christ to these people. This company has big dreams of what God will do through them to build a strong work to the glory of His name.

We pray that this company will continue to grow and develop and soon will be organized as a church. While church organization is important, the most important consideration, will be the transformed lives that will result from the company's ministry.

Planned Giving and Trust Services

The Planned Giving & Trust Services department is pleased to offer church members individual appointments at camp meeting again this year. If you would like to revise your Last Will & Testament, or if you don't have a Will and would like to create one we would be happy to assist you. Shelley Smith of Venture Law in Edmonton will be on site to create your new Will while you attend camp meeting. You can register for individual appointments at the Administration Office.

Many individuals are unaware that making a legacy gift is not only an opportunity to participate in advancing the gospel now, but there may also be significant tax benefits. If you are considering making a planned gift to God's work your financial planner, accountant, lawyer or other professional advisor can provide a plan to best meet your individual needs. If you would like information regarding specific projects currently underway throughout the conference, please speak with the director of planned giving.

After 22 years of denominational service I have decided to join the ranks of the retired. I want to take this opportunity to introduce our new director, Lynn Neumann McDowell. Lynn was born in Edmonton and currently lives with her family in Lacombe. She is a Certified Specialist in Planned Giving from the American Institute for Philanthropic Studies at California State University, Long Beach. She also holds a Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of Alberta in Edmonton, an M.A. in English from Loma Linda University, Riverside, CA and a B.A. Cum Laude in English from Walla Walla College in Washington.

Though Lynn spent most of her life in Alberta, she also helped many people make planned and direct gifts to one of the world's oldest Adventist hospitals as director of planned and major gifts at St. Helena Hospital in California. As a writer whose stories about CUC often appear in the Messenger, Lynn is always interested in the people and story behind every event and gift, and she looks forward to meeting more of the expanding Alberta church family.

We are very happy to have found someone of Lynn's calibre to carry on and continue to develop the department to meet the ever-changing needs of our constituency. Please stop by our table in the Resource Tent at camp meeting to meet her.

A Dose of Spiritual Immunization

On April 14, 2012 the Edmonton South Church recognized one of their members, Dr. Lorne Babiuk, during a church service for his latest honour bestowed on him – the 2012 Canada Gairdner Wightman Award, recognized as Canada's top honor in biomedical research. He has been a member at Edmonton South Church since 2007, when he moved to Edmonton from Saskatoon after being invited to take on the role of Vice President of Research at the University of Alberta (U of A).

The World Health Organization estimates that about one-third of all deaths in the world are caused by infectious diseases (such as the various strains of influenza also known as "the flu," Malaria, Tuberculosis, and HIV). Dr. Babiuk's special interest and work within infectious diseases lies in virology and immunology and vaccine research. He has published over 500 peer-reviewed manuscripts, 100 book chapters and review articles, and holds 36 issued patents (with 13 patents pending).

In 2005, the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation awarded Dr. Babiuk and his colleagues at Vaccine and Infectious Disease Organization (VIDO) $5.6-million to develop a single-dose vaccine to protect newborns against Pertussis (whooping cough) which annually kills 400,000 babies – without the use of needles, a novel approach by nasal spray (a new frontier in vaccine delivery and efficacy). He is credited for helping to develop a vaccine for rotavirus, in animals and humans, which globally causes half a million deaths per year in humans and hundreds of millions of dollars lost to farmers in livestock. It is by his leadership and vision, that he took VIDO (in his native Saskatoon) from a group of a few individuals and built it up into the internationally recognized vaccine research powerhouse that it is today. Last year in September 2011 Prime Minister Stephen Harper was at hand to officially open the $140-million specialized InterVac Facility at VIDO.

Tiresome and tedious at times, research and its results take years, sometimes decades. Through his passion and persistence spanning over 30 years of a career in medical research, Dr. Babiuk has netted the highest civilian honour in the nation – appointed Officer in the Order of Canada, in 2005. Despite all the accomplishments and accolades, he is known by his colleagues as humble and down-to-earth. He and his wife regularly worship at Edmonton South, but until the recent recognition at church his amazing work and accomplishments went unbeknownst to our own congregation. During this service, we thanked him for his inspiring work while remaining faithful to God (not always easy in a secular academic setting) and Pastor John Murley was at hand to present him with a special model, a statue of Christ giving counsel with his hand on a pondering professor's shoulder. A bouquet of flowers were offered to his wife Betty Lou as well, for her patience and support over all the years. At the presentation, it was described that his faith and testimony was "like an injection of spiritual immunization!"

The Harvest

What if no one's home? What if no one's interested? What if they run into someone who is hostile with them at the door?

There were about 12 of us ready to go door-to-door on a Sunday afternoon. We paired everyone up and had a crash course lesson on how to approach the door. Then someone gave a short devotional and we prayed. I handed out the contact lists and away we went. We were doing follow-up visitations on It Is Written contacts who had previously shown some form of spiritual interest. Each pair had about 6 to 8 contacts to try and reach in about an hour and a half.

As everyone started to head out the door of the church the worry started to set in. I was glad people were eager and willing, but as a Bible worker I know how hard door-to-door work can be at times. As willing as people were most of them were also quite green at this type of thing. What if no one's home? What if no one's interested? What if they run into someone who is hostile with them at the door? What if there is no positive experience to be had from this and it crushes their willingness? I was praying "Lord at least let them have positive conversations."

As the pairs started to trickle back to the church I was eager yet doubtful to hear what happened to them. To my surprise all but the most experienced pair had a positive outing and came back very excited.

Afterwards, while I was talking with the Lord, He reminded me of a lesson that He tries to teach but I often find hard to learn. He reminded me of the parable found in Matthew Chapter 9; the harvest was plentiful. If the harvest was plentiful to those whom Jesus was speaking to how much more plentiful is it to you and I today? And it has been my experience that whenever I'm a faithful "worker" I recognize the truth of Christ's promise. Why then do I struggle to believe it?

As Jesus describes, the problem is with the workers and not the harvest. This thought is echoed in Acts of the Apostles page 109 when Ellen White says, "All over the world men and women are looking wistfully to heaven. Prayers and tears and inquiries go up from souls longing for light, for grace, for the Holy Spirit. Many are on the verge of the kingdom, waiting only to be gathered in."

As God still patiently works with me I want to be determined to not allow false fears, negative experiences, and ideological differences to keep me from being a worker. The harvest is plentiful. Be one of the few.

Peers Company

May 6 2012 was a very busy day for the members of Peers Company. The local Agricultural Society created an event to raise funds for our Church Thrift Store. They planned a Mother's Day Tea and asked our church to provide the entertainment including a Fashion Show featuring fashions from Helping Hands Community Thrift Store (our church run store). The community members donated many door prizes and items for a silent auction, and one lady, the organizer Edith Crowther knitted scarfs and sold them, the proceeds all coming to the Thrift Store. Many people in the community volunteered their time to prepare the food and serve the mothers their brunch.

In November 2011 our store put on a Fashion Show for the seniors supper. The entertainment was so well received that the community wanted more. This May 6 event had a sold out crowd. The hall seats about 90 people and all the chairs were booked with standing room only. Pastor Brian and wife Denise Bechthold provided musical numbers of gospel music and tributes to mothers. During one point in time they even had the packed crowd singing along. The entertainment included a PowerPoint show of Mother's Day trivia and trivia of some of the people who were founding residents of Peers. People seemed to have fun identifying with their history.

The fashion show itself was a big success. There were 15 models including men and children, all volunteers from the community.

Imagine yourself debt free

“What a joy to wake up in the morning and find yourself debt free”! For most of us that statement is just a dream but for the 54 participants who attended the Edmonton South Financial Peace Seminar that dream is much closer to reality, especially if they continue to practice the seven baby steps to financial freedom as taught by author, speaker and radio personality Dave Ramsey.

“The Financial Peace Seminar was offered by Edmonton South as one component of reaching out to our community” says Pastor John Murley, Senior Pastor. It is in keeping with the statement made by E.G. White in her book Ministry of Healing where she states on page 143, “The Saviour mingled with men as one who desired their good. He showed His sympathy for them, ministered to their needs, and won their confidence. Then He bade them, Follow Me.”

At Edmonton South we have determined that our Church must reach out to our community and help meet the needs that exist. The importance for families to rid themselves of the heavy debt loads that they carry was one such need identified.

A total of 54 people took the 13 week course, that started in late January and ended in late April. The group who met weekly, were led by the DVD teaching of popular radio host Dave Ramsey. That was supplemented by our local coordinator Pastor Murley who led the group in discussion and homework assignments.

At the conclusion of the 13 weeks the group had paid off collectively $126,000 in debt and had a combined amount of $153,325.00 in overall savings. “This is a fantastic report” says Pastor Murley, “but the best part of the seminar was that we made friends with several non-members who attended our church for 13 weeks and are now excited about coming back to other programs that we offer, such as Marriage on the Rock and Creation Health.”

Alberta's first VOAR radio station

Exciting developments are taking place almost daily regarding VOAR radio in Alberta.

Sabbath, May 26, 2012 was a high day for the Edson church and district churches—Peers Company and Whitecourt company. It was the official opening of the new Edson VOAR radio station. The tower is located on church property and stands tall—40 feet—testifying to proclaiming Christ on the air waves. Local newspapers have told the story of the new station and there is a sense of excitement for the potential of this new outreach.

There are others now in the process—Hobbema, Stettler and Olds.

If your church has not received the VOAR packet then please contact Don Corkum dcorkum@albertasda.org or Irma Hartley (403) 342-5044.

There will be a VOAR display at Camp Meeting this year and a 40 foot tower.

Healthy living

In 2002, I was diagnosed with high blood sugar levels that required me to take medication and regularly test my blood. My doctor told me that if my blood level didn't decrease, my medications would have to increase. On the weekend of February 25, I attended the "Total Health Weekend", with special guest presenter Darlene Blaney. The weekend was organized by the Yellowknife Adventist Church. Darlene's counsel included simple changes to my diet, a 10 day lemon cleanse, and exercising at least 45 minutes daily. She assisted me with selecting the specific items from the local grocery store and putting together some basic menu plans.

Within a few days of the cleanse, I noticed that my blood sugar level began to stabilize. A few weeks after completing the cleanse, and now onto a total vegetarian diet plan, I had the fasting full intensive blood test taken. The test revealed that my blood sugar level was now at 5 - in the healthy range. It's now been two months and my blood sugar level has remained stable and I'm waiting to wean off some of my medications.

The news of my blood levels, Darlene's seminar, and the Bible-based health principles I am practicing have increased my faith. . .It was the Hand of God in my life!

Rocky Mountain House

Who says a small church can't have BIG things happen? The first Thursday of each month has been committed to presenting a seminar or workshop to the community. Attendance has been growing as well as the enthusiasm!

The first program was initiated with the film, "Forks Over Knives" with an exciting response and request for total vegetarian cooking classes. A class was presented in April featuring a menu consisting of Mexican Tortilla Casserole, Quinoa Salad, Cream of Broccoli Soup, Cranberry Pecan Orange Bread, and Coconut Cream Pie.

May was the month of exercise and motivation of starting a fitness program.

Participants were able to experience different tests such as personal grip strength, BMI, and Body Fat. A 1-mile walk test was performed with all participants receiving charts showing their fitness level and how to achieve their personal desired goals. A lecture presented by Darlene Blaney was given, motivating each person to set up an exercise program enjoying the joys of ultimate health, this spring and summer seasons! — Darlene Blaney

Sherwood Park

The Sherwood Park Adventist Church enjoyed a full weekend of events to commemorate the death and resurrection of Jesus. Friday evening people came together in the fellowship hall for a candle-lit agape supper, followed by foot washing and the Lord's Supper. During the Sabbath morning worship service new elders were ordained, and all the members of the congregation who are active in some form of church ministry (over 80 people) were consecrated to their office or ministry in a prayer of commitment. Sunday morning began with a hearty breakfast provided by Women's Ministries, followed by a joy-filled worship service in praise of the risen Saviour. The church has been hosting Easter Weekend services for five years, and this year had the largest attendance yet.

Loyalist Church Fire Kit Ministry

For many years the Loyalist Adventist Church have kept on hand a "Fire Kit" to be given to anyone who suffers the loss of possessions in a fire. For the last several years it has not been needed, however in a three week period early this year it was needed not only once but twice. On the bitterly cold day of January 16 a couple lost their home to fire. When a Fire Kit was delivered it was accepted with gratitude and tears. Conscientious church members immediately replenished the kit and so when a family of six lost their home and all possessions on February 7, the kit was again delivered along with 2 extra quilts. Each kit contains all new items including a Queen size bed-in-a-bag with sheets and pillows, 2 sets of towels, kitchen linens, a set of dishes and cutlery for 4, laundry, hand and dish soap, Kleenex, paper towels, toothbrushes and toothpaste. Each kit is delivered along with a cheque for $500.00.

Fort Assiniboine

The community of Fort Assiniboine lies about an hour northwest of Onoway, where the Schulte family attend church. Having lived in Fort Assiniboine for over 14 years, Jeff and Gerry along with their children Hannah and Seth have gotten to know many of the local people. After seeing the "Forks Over Knives" DVD at B.C. camp meeting last summer, they decided to show it to their own community. From that viewing stemmed an interest in healthier eating, so Darlene Blaney was booked for a cooking class. On March 16, 2012, twenty three community people attended the afternoon cooking class. Participants received lots of helpful tips and enjoyed tasty samples (which turned out to be more like a full meal). The cashew cheese sauce was especially a favorite for many. Everyone went home with "Vegetarian for Life", one of Darlene's cookbooks as well as the recipes from the class.

Hobbema

Charity Northwest with Pastor Ford

There has been much rejoicing at the Hobbema Adventist fellowship. Charity Northwest had attended Mamawi Atosketan Native School over 10 years ago. She has since had two children, and has recently come back to church. Charity requested Bible studies and was baptized on March 31, 2012 by Pastor Peter Ford.

Calgary Maranatha Spanish

A new family has been welcomed into the Adventist church. Rosa Carranza and her two children, Jessica (12) and Alexander (8) were baptized on April 14 at the Calgary Maranatha Spanish Church. After being invited by Joel Ariaga and his family to come and worship with them, the Carranza's were soon driving from High River to attend church in Calgary. When the subject of baptism came up during their studies they decided to accept Jesus Christ as their personal Savior and decided to be baptized as soon as possible. Pastor Alvaro Jojoa led them in baptismal classes until the joyous day of their public declaration to follow Jesus Christ.

Lethbridge

Four individuals were baptized and three came in by profession of faith at the Lethbridge church following a recent prophecy seminar presented by Amazing Facts speaker Darrin Bartell. Furthermore, several others have committed to worshipping each Sabbath with the Lethbridge church family.

Mrs. Gaitanne Boyd, the mother of one of our new members who joined the church last year, made her decision to join the Seventh-day Adventist church after Ben Otto from Medicine Hat set up a 3ABN satellite dish system in her home. After watching the Adventist programming for a few months, Mrs. Boyd called Pastor

Darrell Beaudoin and requested membership. When the pastor visited the home to meet with her, many family members were present. Pastor Darrell asked if there were others who would like to consider membership and Gordon and Yvonne Myer, daughter and son-in-law of Mrs. Boyd, responded. — Pastor Darrell Beaudoin

Sanctuary seminar

Campers at the 2012 Alberta Camp Meeting will experience a life-size model of the wilderness Sanctuary set up on the camp ground. Young and old are invited to tour "Messiah's Mansion." Understanding the significance of the Sanctuary is highlighted by a ten-session workshop, "Jesus in the Sanctuary," offered by Ulrich "Ole" Unruh, pastor and director of "Northern Light Seminars." The workshop is a prophetic portrayal of each significant step our Lord took while on earth and is still accomplishing for His people in heaven today. This presentation will confirm your faith in the distinctive teachings of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and encourage a revival of true godliness. This seminar is not a rehash of what you already know, but provides amazing new faith-building insights. Jesus will be understood as never before.
